What is it?

A micro-learning tool that delivers cross-disciplinary knowledge.

Who's this made for?

1. Parents seeking positive viewing online content for their children during wait times.
2. Students in search of resources for Chinese-English vocabulary and reading comprehension.
3. Teachers planning after-school self-study programs for students.
4. Travelers on the move seeking pastimes to add value to their travel time.
5. Working professionals seeking to gather diverse industry knowledge during their transit time.
6. Elders who wish to engage in new topics of conversation to interact with their next generation.

How it works, and what's new?

You can customize your learning experience by picking subjects, setting study time, choosing a language, and selecting a difficulty level that match your interests. The existing learning content includes Language (English, Bilingual English-Chinese, and Mandarin), STEM (Mathematics, Physics, and Technology), Business (Management and Financial Literacy), and Lifestyle (Arts, Design, and Sports). As of May 5th, 2024, the total word count of the question base is 125,760, with 40% being bilingual (Chinese and English) and purely Chinese content, and the remaining 60% consisting of English content.

Where can the product be used?

The product is online-based, so you can use it anywhere with internet—whether you're at home, on the go, or in any setting that suits your lifestyle.

Is it free to use?

There is a free version available, ideal for brief learning sessions. The $1750 Ultra version is ideal for self-learners and expands knowledge through a self-directed approach. Each month, the Ultra edition adds over 400 new questions, with 5% of these simultaneously shared with the trial version.

Why the Q&A style for all questions?

A learning style that opens up a dialogue, calling for your participation.

Why can't there be more than two answer options?

Because this is NOT a test. After reviewing the question, you're prompted to decide between the provided either-or options. Our objective is to immerse you in a process that sharpens your logical reasoning, analysis, evaluation, and inferential skills.

Got more whys? Let's explore further @ https://edurisesmicrolearning.com/faq-en/